

IN THE ABSTRACT

Please replace the Abstract as follows:

-- To provide an information sharing mediating service between an optional information transmitter site and an information viewer site by efficiently utilizing a storage area of a database. Shared data stored in an information sharing service site, are displayed at the information viewer site in a form of display corresponding to customization information held in a customization information storing means. The customization information corresponds to it in the information transmitter site. --